YHS students do "Arsenic and Old Lace"

Two batty old ladies with a talent for making killer elderberry wine, their loony brother who thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt, a homicidal maniac with a passion for plastic surgery, and a normal, happy nephew with his fiancée get involved in the plot complications for "Arsenic and Old Lace."

There's also a basement where "yellow fever victims" are buried by Teddy, a plan to send the ladies off to a rest home and a deep concern on the part of the suitor about whether, with so much craziness in his family, he should get married at all.

The show is being presented tonight, Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. at the YHS theater as a benefit for the Danny Zabicki Fund. Danny had a rare form of cancer and the fund in his name helps people dealing with the disease.

The play is the senior project of YHS students Kyle Bohigian, Ryan Rogers, Victor Sandoval, and TJ Sloan.

Tickets cost $5 for students and $7 for adults. For more information or reservations, call (559) 683-4667 Ext. 256.
